

A message from Inspiritus

Giving Hope. That's what we're doing here on the ground in Middle Tennessee, in places like Nashville, Mt. Juliet, and Cookeville.

Giving hope to tornado survivors who've lost everything.

But we're starting to see a glimmer of it in the eyes of the survivors we've met. The child building a phoenix sculpture out of debris scraps during our MyCanvas Art Therapy classes. The senior church member bringing in hot meals for volunteers and other survivors. The young woman who smiled from ear-to-ear when our volunteers returned her precious military jacket found over 50 miles away!

We're giving hope and coming together as one community.

In the past week:

- We've led over 3500+ volunteers
- 25,052 hours of volunteer labor
- 110 properties cleared

HOW TO HELP:

To donate or volunteer got to the Inspiritus website.

weinspirit.org/disaster-relief

We also need gift cards and financial donations, desperately:

- Home Depot and Lowe's cards: for home repair work and debris removal tools
- Gas cards: to get volunteer teams to and from the disaster sites where homeowners are in need
- VISA cards: for clients who have extreme financial needs for survival, and for disaster work supplies
- Walmart cards: to feed volunteer teams, and for clients with extreme financial needs for survival (ex. Pharmacy medications, baby supplies, etc.)
